FOREWORD

After an interval of sixteen years since the publication of the last volume of D.E.S.O.R., we are glad to present this new edition which has been completely revised and updated. We spent a lot of time to carefully listen again and restudy each single piece already in the previous discography. In the meantime, new finds from collectors and fresh releases by record companies have been circulated. In fact, this present edition includes about 500 sessions more than the previous one.

Thanks to Bjarne Busk's very kind cooperation, we were able to listen to and study the extraordinary collection of recordings which Mercer Ellington donated to the Danish Radio. A very warm thank you also goes to Jerry Valburn, who allowed us to listen to numerous broadcasts of the Forties from his private collection and whose precious directories of Ellington's recordings were a valuable aid in our work.

The main features of the previous edition remain unchanged; we have only added a few innovations which we think will aid readers more in the consultation of our books. The most important innovation was the separation of the sessions list from that of the tune descriptions. The latter list is in the second book, under the titles section, where all the descriptions have been compiled title by title, in chronological order. In this way, one can follow the evolution in the arrangements of the same tune and the change in the successive soloists over the years. The musicians section has been enriched with titles of pieces where each musician performs a solo. The records section now includes the year of publication, first editions and a few notes regarding any eventual editing or mastering faults.

As always, this discography is dedicated to all Duke Ellington collectors and fans, without whose valuable help this publication would not have been possible. First of all, we would like to mention the fundamental contributions made by some of the great Ellington specialists who, regrettably, are no longer with us, namely Benny Aasland, not only for his discographies but most of all for the DEMS Bulletin, which, over the last twenty years, has provided the most reliable source of information; Klaus Stratemann for the Day by Day and Film by Film, a real gold-mine of data and information; Gordon Ewing for the Duke Ellington's itinerary and Ole Nielsen, author of a very precise discography.

Special mention goes to Steven Lasker, a great expert on the Thirties and Forties, who helped us to amend many discographical imperfections concerning this period and who also provided us with an important collection of Columbia recording sheets of the Fifties and Sixties.

Many thanks go also to Sjef Hoefsmit, who succeeded Benny Aasland and took over the helm of DEMS, for his constant encouragement and great help in the very difficult field of interpreting, classifying and determining reasonable recording dates of the Ellington interviews.

Finally we would gratefully acknowledge the valuable assistance of Antonio Berini, Vittorio Castelli, Luis Contijoch, Georges Debroe, Klaus Gotting, Francois-Xavier Moulé, Gianni Tollara, Satoshi Yuze. Our apologies to anyone whose name may have been omitted inadvertently.

Like all discographies, this too will require constant updating and amending in order to remain a valid tool. We hope to accomplish this through the DEMS Bulletin, where any eventual amendment or new entry shall be published, and we hope our readers will do the same.

Milan, March 1999

GUIDE FOR USERS

SECTION ONE - SESSIONS

HEADING: comprises three lines of general information on the sessions.

- first line: date and name of the band, which is usually that on the record label; failing this, it is generally indicated as "DUKE ELLINGTON AND HIS ORCHESTRA" or "DUKE ELLINGTON GROUP" or the like.
- second line: location, city and country (city and state for U.S.A. only) and origin of recording.
- third line: musicians' initials and, in brackets, abbreviations of the instruments played (the first being the main instrument).

CONTENTS: list of the tunes set out in five columns.

- first column: catalogue number of each tune, comprising Ellington's initials, the year, the consecutive session number in that year and, in letters, the order of the tunes performed in that session.
- second column: the most known title of the tune, which always remains the same; any alternative title, used during some performances, is shown in brackets.
- third column: vocalists' initials; the word "theme" indicates the signature tunes.
- fourth column: initials and number of the original release on record, followed by subsequent releases in alphabetical order; only those new issues which we consider of interest to the collector and which are included in the records section in the second part of the book are mentioned; if the record label and number are shown in brackets, it means that only a fragment of the tune has been utilised for the actual record issued; if there is just the number in brackets, this means the record does not have an official catalogue number.

- fifth column: recording matrix number, followed by the take number; there are matrixes without take or takes without matrix; instead, the numbers in brackets indicate the track (consecutive session number assigned to each tune).
